1. Why do you think no one filed their taxes in the month of January?

2RESEARCH: The Tax Cycle

There are only a few times per year you really need to focus on taxes. If you familiarize yourself with a few consistent dates, you'll make it very easy to stay on top of your taxes and file on time every year. Use the internet to determine the date of each of these events in the tax cycle. Because taxes are filed after the calendar year ends, some of these dates are occurring the year after the actual year you are filing for.

Dates in orange are during the calendar year you are filing taxes for

- For instance, if you are filing your taxes for 2019, these dates are actually during 2019.

Dates in blue take place the year AFTER the year you are filing for

- For instance, if you are filing your taxes for 2019, these dates actually are occurring in 2020.

* *If there are any terms in this schedule you are unfamiliar with, consult our Taxes Glossary.
